THE LEGISLATIVE WORK.

A Number of Bills Passed—Distinguished Visitors.

DEAR PRESS: Another week has passed since I took pleasure in speaking with you. The wheels of legislation have made but few revolutions during that time. Several bills relating to Louisville and its complicated government have passed both houses, and the proposed measures for that city alone would consume the time of the legislature till the 4th of July.

A bill placing the punishment of local option offenders in the hands of the magistrates and police courts, for final trial, passed the house by almost unanimous vote; a similar bill passed the senate.

A bill to abolish the state board of equalization, or to restrict its powers greatly, is looked upon with great favor and will probably become a law.

The senate passed Cantrill's bill to prevent the use of paris green on tobacco, and it will next engage the attention of the house. Your humble servant would like to hear from the tobacco growers of his district on that subject.

Capitol appropriation talk has steadily gone down, till you can scarcely find any one to converse with you on that subject, except it be an exponent of Louisville or Lexington fitness, or the ideal city to which we could, with equal dignity and propriety transfer that magnificent structure, erected on paper, to a material foundation of rest forever.

A score of celebrated Missourians, headed by four ex-governors, who claim Kentucky as their native place, will pour down upon us this week and endeavor, under the brilliant festal lamp, through the wine's rosy glow, with the entrancing melody of the world's sweetest music, to cause us to open "the old empty stocking" and take therefrom $200,000 to advertise Kentucky at the great Exposition. Well, Mr. Editor, you have "been there," and of course you know that the best policy is to "try to look wise and say nothing."

We elected the Hon. James B. McCreary to succeed the Hon. William J. Deboe, of your city, in the U. S. Senate, this week, again, this being the third time I hope my Democratic friends will not grumble about the job being imperfectly done.

We also elected Miss Pauline Hardin for librarian, by acclamation, as Gov. Worthington, for the Republicans, so moved.

Tell interested friends of the Blind and Deaf and Dumb schools that they need never fear that this legislature will put those institutions in the hands of demagogues who only seek to line their own pockets, but that they will continue under the present efficient management to dispense knowledge and charity to the unfortunate sons and daughters of Kentucky.

The old residents of this city inform me that the "crop of jobs" and schemes to rob the treasury this session is the most prolific within their knowledge. That will give you some idea of the magnitude of the thing.

A great many came here to get office, and the fact that the caucus did not "pan out" does not dispirit them, as they sit supinely by waiting for the legislature to create an office for them to run for.

Every kind of a bill that the human mind can conceive has already been introduced, and you have only to wait and take your choice.

More next week.

LOCAL OPTION.

The Bill Making the County a Unity May Pass.

There is going to a hard fight over the Farris Local Option Bill, which is practically the Roberts Local Option Bill of last session. It makes the county the unit in deciding the question of local option, so that if a majority of the voters in a county vote "dry" there can be no liquor sold in any part of that county. Under the present law one district of the county might vote "dry" while another might vote "wet." Counties having large towns or cities under the proposed option law would almost invariably vote "wet." It is claimed, while in the counties containing smaller towns it is said the opposite result would be reached. At any rate the county unit rule has been a bone of sharp contention between the prohibitionists and those who favor the sale of liquor. A poll of the two houses by interested persons is said to have resulted in the discovery that the friends of local option have a majority of about two to one in the Senate and of nearly three to one in the House, as matters stand now. Therefore, it is believed that the fight over this question this year will be equally as exciting as it was when the Roberts Bill was before the legislature.

Indications of Oil.

Princeton, Ky., Jan. 25.—J. J. Boynton, who has been boring for oil for some time on the farm of W. F. O'Hara, four miles south of Princeton, this week brought to town some pulverized stone. The stone was taken from the bottom of the well at a depth of 800 feet. It has the color of crude petroleum. The prospects of oil in Caldwell county are flattering, and Mr. Boynton thinks it is a matter of a few days until he has oil in abundance.

Cut this out and take it to Haynes' drug store and get a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, the best physic. They also cure disorders of the stomach, biliousness and headache.

THE BEGINNING

Of an Industry that will Enrich Western Kentucky.

Development of Spar Mines is Revolutionizing Crittenden County.

Needmore! Yes, Needmore. That used to be the name of the little hamlet in the Southwestern part of Crittenden county that now bears the euphonic name of Frances, and was so-called in honor of the wife of ex-president Cleveland.

A representative of the Tale of Two Cities made a tour through the spar fields surrounding that quaint little hamlet last week and was astonished at the developments that are taking place there in mining fluor spar, the valuable mineral that is now revolutionizing the manufacture and working of iron and steel.

Nineteen years before the same pencil pusher was at the same hamlet, and when he asked the name of their little town and was told that it was "Needmore," and when he took a look at the impoverished soil he became thoroughly convinced that the name was no misnomer, and was the most appropriately named town in the United States.

The town has undergone quite a change, several business houses and residences now adorn it, and the only hotel is kept by Judge Pogue, father of the Hon. Marion Pogue, the popular representative from Crittenden and Livingston counties, now at Frankfort, where he is regarded as one of the best men in the lower house. Judge Pogue is a typical Southern gentleman, who delights in reminiscences of long ago, and in making his guests feel at ease and comfortable.

From almost a dreary waste that section of the country surrounding Frances has become a veritable bee-hive. Miners, prospectors, and capitalists all in a rush to better their financial condition by developing the spar mining business.

Almost in a stone's throw of Frances is located the Asbridge mines, which were opened about two years ago. This mine is worked by four or five men, and it was learned that the profits on the spar taken from that mine last year was over $8,000. The vein is almost inexhaustible and it is claimed can be worked profitably for the next fifty years.

Within eighty feet of the Asbridge mine is the McClelland mines, which promises to be even a greater producer of spar than the Asbridge. The mine has been opened since the first of December, by Mr. F. A. McClelland, who represents an Eddyville company. He has secured leases and options on some very valuable mineral lands, and opened six or eight small mines, or prospect holes, two or three becoming paying mines from the second or third day after beginning. Mr. McClelland is an experienced mineral man, having been engaged in the mining business in Indiana for a good many years before coming to Eddyville. He is an expert on spar and is already quite familiar with the location and course of the various spar veins.

Three kinds of spar are found in seemingly inexhaustible quantities—the sand, the gravel and the rock spar, which sells at from $5 to $18 per ton. This spar is considered a very high grade, and is hauled to Mexico, a station on the O. V. branch of the Illinois

Central railroad, four and one half miles from Frances. It costs only 25 to 40 cents a ton to get the spar mined and from sixty-five cents to one dollar and a quarter to haul by wagon to Mexico.

The Hodge mine, said to be the largest and best paying spar mine in the world, is only one and a half miles from Frances. It puts out from forty to sixty tons a day. Mr. Johnnie Hodge, upon whose land this mine is located, it is said gets three thousand dollars a year as royalty, while the operators of this mine receive from this property and some other mines in the county a net income of more than four hundred and fifty dollars per day.

The Yandell and Tabb and the Tabor are the names of some of the other mines, all within a radius of three miles of Frances, or Needmore. They are all doing a fine business, and new mines are being opened every week. Yet it is not a question of how much can be sold, but how much can be furnished. Speculators are begging for contracts for the entire output for the next five or ten years.

No field in Kentucky promises such magnificent returns for the small capital with intelligent effort as the fluor spar fields of Crittenden and Livingston counties, not even excepting the coal oil fields. Besides fluor spar, they have lead and zinc in great abundance and some little silver.

Indeed that whole section will soon be honey-combed by the industrious miner, and that country that seemed fit only for sassafras sprouts, broom sage and dirt dobermen will soon be made to blossom as the rose, and prosperity and plenty will abound everywhere.—Tale of Two Cities.

Driver Heir to Fortune.

Morganfield, Ky., Jan. 25.—Warren M. Dent, a driver for the Morganfield Steam Laundry, has just received word that he has fallen heir to $150,000. [A rich uncle in Scotland died leaving all of his property to his only relative, who is Dent.]

Dent was employed by the Morganfield ice company until this fall, when he accepted a position to drive the laundry wagon. His many friends here are heartily congratulating him upon his unexpected good luck.

Profitless Advertising.

What an amount of money is spent annually in profitless advertising! More cash is sunk in circulars, in dead wall displays, and in programs than would be required to fill the pages of the newspapers with profitable announcements every day in the year, and yet business men keep right on, wasting their money in these mediums.

It is easy enough for merchants to prove the relative value of these different forms of publicity as compared with straight newspaper advertising.

Did you personally ever go and buy anything to which your attention had been called by a circular? Few people whom we have ever met—and we have met a great many—have admitted that they have. On the other hand, if you are honest you will acknowledge that you have made many purchases of articles advertised in the columns of the magazines and newspapers.—Editor and Publisher.

TRADEWATER SURVEY.

Congressman Allen Asks for An Appropriation for the River.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Representative Allen appeared before the Rivers and Harbor committee this morning and requested that a sufficient amount of money be appropriated for surveying Trade-water and Pond rivers, with the view of determining their practicability for navigation. Mr. Allen believes the survey will be authorized. The committee seemed favorably impressed with his argument and asked a number of questions about the locality through the rivers flow.

Women and Jewels.

Jewels, candy, flowers, man—that is the order of a woman's preferences. Jewels form a magnet of mighty power to the average woman. Even that greatest of all jewels, health, is often ruined in the strenuous efforts to make or save the money to purchase them. If a woman will risk her health to get a coveted gem, then let her fortify herself against the insidious consequences of coughs, colds and bronchial affections by the regular use of Dr. Boschee's German syrup. It will promptly arrest consumption in its early stages, and heal the affected lungs and bronchial tubes and drive the dread disease from the system. It is not a cure-all, but it is a certain cure for coughs, colds, and all bronchial troubles. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at H. K. Woods & Co's drug store. CURRENT COMMENT.

The czar is a costly visitor when he goes on a state mission. His trip to France will cost the government of that country nearly 2,000,000 francs.

James C. Needham, a member of the house of representatives, was born at Carson City, Nev., in an emigrant wagon, his parents being en route across the plains to California.

There are in the city of Boston 73,000 citizens who pay personal taxes and about 20,000 of this number also pay a real estate tax. The poll tax payers in Boston number about 100,000.

Chicago's revenue from water tax receipts, which was $565,000 in 1880, rose to $2,100,000 in 1899, and was $1,100,000 in 1900. The average daily supply of water in Chicago is 300,000,000 gallons.

Representative Connell, of Pennsylvania, who owns a score of coal mines, besides banks, newspapers, street car lines, railroads and a lot of other things, began life as a miner with a pick and shovel.

While the rest of the country grows about trusts, New Jersey, mother of the tribe, cherishes as it jingles the rakes off. Last year the state scooped in $67,000 in fees from new condones.

The times have developed few more devoted martyrs to duty than the health commissioner in a Pennsylvania city who had himself vaccinated 28 times to show reluctant citizens that it did not hurt.

Under the new apportionment of congressional districts the cities of the country receive a generally larger representation than they have at present. New York will have 17 members, Chicago 9, Philadelphia 6, and St. Louis 3.

The footings of the tax books of Greater New York for 1902 show $1,122,121,000 in real estate and $3,472,788,562 in personal property. The latter figures will shrink materially before the close of the "swearing off" season, which begins this month.

There are six George Washingtons in the house. Illinois and Indiana send two each and Alabama and New York one each. The next given name in favor is Henry Clay, of which there are three; there are two Benjamin Franklins and two Thomas Jeffersons.

There are two republicans in the Alabama legislature, two in the Arkansas legislature, none in the Florida legislature, five in the Georgia legislature, one in the South Carolina legislature, and none in the Texas legislature. There is no republican in the legislature of Louisiana.

Pennsylvania has levied no real estate taxes for state purposes since 1865, all the expenses for maintaining the state government being borne by the corporations. In 1865 the receipts of the state treasury of Pennsylvania aggregated $6,249,957.67 and in 1901 they amounted to $17,494,211.78.

In its efforts to suppress the gambling mania the University of Wisconsin faculty is threatening to expel a number of students whose poker-playing proclivities seem to be making inroads upon their studious habits. They can keep right on, however, betting on foot ball games, so long as they back their own "varsity" club. The gambling mania must be subordinated to the demands of higher education.

Dr. McComas, a druggist in Washington, has reduced his weight in six years by 207 pounds, leaving him a walking shadow of 210 pounds. How did he do it? By eating one meal a week and doing without coffee, which Dr. McComas says is better than carrying 417 pounds. Why a man cannot have the satisfaction of eating all he wants without getting fat is one of those mysteries which the finite mind has no right to get snaky about.

Alfred Mosely, a wealthy Englishman, says American boys are brighter than English boys. He does not appear to know why. One of the chief reasons why Young America is bright is because it tips the cap to no spire, squinting or other condescending overman. And, in addition to this, he may find by listening to the conversation of Uncle Sam's sons and daughters that each and every one has a towering ambition; not one is satisfied to stay in a particular class if he or she can see a way of getting higher.

During 1901 the number of passengers killed on the steam surface railroads in New York state was only 10 for the entire 17,518 miles of track in operation and out of a total of about 82,000,000 passengers carried, but even that comparatively small number was an increase of exactly 100 per cent. over the record of 1900, when there were only eight passengers killed out of a total of about 71,000,000 carried. In 1901 there New York railroads killed one passenger out of every 7,100,000 carried, as against one killed for every 9,330,704 carried in 1900.

The Pan-American congress, in session at Mexico City, adopted the following: "The republics assembled at the international conference in Mexico applaud the purpose of the United States government to construct an inter-oceanic canal, and acknowledge that this work will not only be worthy of the greatness of the American people, but also in the highest sense a work of civilization and to the highest degree beneficial to the development of commerce between the American states and to the other countries of the world."

The monthly statement of the collections of internal revenue show that during December, 1901, the total receipts were $22,812,915, a decrease as compared with the corresponding month in 1900 of $2,399,231. The receipts from the several sources of revenue are given as follows: Spirits $11,520,957, increase $146,542; tobacco $1,103,496, decrease $715,573; fermented liquors $1,735,651, decrease $509,835; oleomargarine $223,119, increase $13,306; special taxes, not elsewhere enumerated, $56,227, increase $28,344; miscellaneous $1,971,059, decrease $1,362,017.

There was a decrease of 3.5 per cent in last year's imports, compared with those of 1900. There was a decrease of more than a million tons in the coal imports, and more than 500,000 tons in the iron and timber imports. The imports of wheat rose 1,125,000 tons. The total exports amounted to 32,363,195 tons, compared with 32,681,747 in 1900. The increase in iron exports was nearly 800,000 tons. The decrease in the exports of ores and coal is especially noticeable. The value of the imports in 1901 was 5,967,000,000 marks, compared with 6,043,000,000 marks in the preceding year, while the exports were valued at 4,759,000 marks, as against 4,753,000,000 marks in 1900.

The total for 1900 shows an increase of $549,110,168 over the total of 1890 in the value of products and of $401,871,337 in the amount of capital invested, which in 1900 amounted to 1,153,670,097, against $678,795,860 in 1890.

Having failed, after two years' strife, in subduing the insurgents in Batangas province, P. I., which lies just south of Manila, and having satisfied himself that lenient treatment to the insurgents is productive of no good results, Gen. J. Franklin Bell, the military commander in that province, has determined on the enforcement of the war in the most vigorous and determined fashion, involving reconcentration in a modified form, the application of martial law in all directions and the inspiring pursuit and punishment of the natives who act as spies and traitors to the United States.

The census report shows that the large cities taken collectively are growing nearly twice as rapidly as the rest of the country. The per cent of the population of northern states living in large cities is nearly three times as great as the corresponding per cent in the south, the north has a rate of increase no greater than that of the south. The cities in the north are growing much faster than those of the same size in the south, but this difference is balanced by an extremely rapid growth of small towns and cities in the south, and especially by the high rate of increase of southern rural population.

The interstate commerce commission last week transmitted to congress its fifteenth annual report. The commission renews its recommendations for increased powers. Referring to recent investigations made into the movement of packing house products and the movement of grain and grain products, the commission says: "That the leading trade officials of many of the principal railway lines, when occupying high positions and charged with the most important duties, should deliberately violate the statute law of the land, and in some cases, agree with each other to do so; that it should be thought by them necessary to destroy vouchers and to so manipulate bookkeeping as to obliterate evidence of the transactions; that hundreds of thousands of dollars should be paid in lawful rebates to a few great packing houses; that the business of railroad transportation, the most important, but one, in the country today, paying the highest salaries and holding out to young men the greatest inducements, should to such an extent be conducted in open disregard of law, must be surprising and offensive to all right-minded persons. A preliminary report of railways operating probably 99 per cent of the mileage that will be covered by the final report for the year, shows the passenger earnings were $126,909,210 and the freight earnings $1,144,740,770. The total earnings were $1,271,649,980, or $8,211 per mile. The gross earnings for 1900, as shown in the final report for that year, were $1,187,944,811. The operating expenses for 1901 amounted to $1,023,281, or $5,323 per mile of line, the net earnings of the roads included in this advance report being $55,007,224, or $35,557,218 in excess of their earnings during the fiscal year 1900. The total income of these roads, including $65,271,211 received from investments and other sources, was $620,379,168. The amount of dividends declared during the year was $121,108,637.

The Bill to That Effect Passed the Kentucky House.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 25.—Senate.—The senate Thursday passed the House double disability repeal bill, doing away with the double disability clause of the statutes as to all corporations except banks, trusts and insurance companies. Among the bills reported by the house to the senate was the Brewery license men's pension fund bill, and the Paris bill to return to the viva voce system of voting.

House.—Bills adopted: To give magistrates and police courts final jurisdiction in local option cases, to reduce the amount of fine for violation of local option laws to $100, so that magistrates and police courts will have final jurisdiction; to take from women of cities of the second class—Lexington, Covington and Newport—the right to vote in school elections; to prohibit the use of any textbooks in the common or graded schools that do not give full credit for the naval victory at Santiago to Adam W. S. Schley. Representative Averette (dem.) introduced a joint resolution condemning the action of President Roosevelt in sending a special envoy as the representative of this country to the coronation of King Edward.

KENTUCKY FEUD.

A Fight Took Place Which May Result in a Triple Murder.

London, Ky., Jan. 25.—News was received here Friday evening of a bloody fight on Buck creek, Owsley county. Seven men were engaged in the battle six of whom were wounded. The participants were Dan and Newell Brown and Robert Lydon, on one side, and George Scott and Layton and John Treanor, and Dan Allen on the other. Five of the men were armed with pistols and two with knives. The cause of the trouble was an old grudge existing between Newell Brown and George Scott, the latter having been a county officer at one time and thus Brown in a pinch case. Both Dan and Newell Brown are so badly wounded that their recovery is improbable and Scott's wounds may also prove fatal. Robert Lydon, Layton Treanor and Dan Allen are also dangerously wounded, but will recover.

THE ARGUMENTS BEGUN.

No Limit Placed on the Speeches in the Jim Howard Case.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 25.—The trial today was closed in the Jim Howard case. The arguments of the day were unimportant. No limit has been placed on the speeches and it is probable that there will be four for the defense and three for the prosecution. Judge Cantrell ordered that all spectators be searched for arms on entering the court room. OUR DUTY TO CUBA.

The peace of Cuba is necessary to the peace of the United States; the health of Cuba is necessary to the health of the United States; the independence of Cuba is necessary to the safety of the United States. The same considerations which led to the war with Spain now require that a commercial arrangement be made under which Cuba can live.—Secretary Root's Report.

I most earnestly ask your attention to the wisdom, indeed, to the vital need, of providing for a substantial reduction in the tariff duties on Cuban imports into the United States. Cuba lies in her Constitution affirmed what we desired, that she should stand, in international matters, in closer and more friendly relations with us than with any other power; and we are bound by every consideration of honor and expediency to pass commercial measures in the interest of her material well-being.—President Roosevelt's Message.

"Can't something be done, Maria?" "I have tried, I have tried, to make the time pass more quickly." "I'll try," whispered the hostess. Then, turning to those near her, she said in a voice loud enough to be heard throughout the room, "In about half an hour from now Miss Howler will favor the company with a song."—Chicago Tribune.

No one seems to have too much sentiment to entertain that unfavorable feeling that a funeral is a feast, when the loved one is busy, or listless, to smile and chatter as a monkey.—Michigan Advertiser.

THE SCHLEYS IN CHICAGO.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. W.S. Schley Given a Tumultuous Welcome to Chicago.

THE GALLANT SAILOR DEEPLY MOVED.

As Said It Was a Great Reward as Could Be Hoped For on This Earth—The Admiral In For a Busy Time During His Stay in the Windy City.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Rear-Admiral W. S. Schley arrived in Chicago today at 9:30 a. m., and was greeted with a tumultuous acclaim from thousands of people who crowded the Baltimore & Ohio depot and thronged nearby streets for blocks. His reception here was the culmination of the demonstration in his honor which have occurred all along the route from Washington.

Admiral Schley, accompanied by Mrs. Schley, were met in their private car at South Chicago an hour before the train arrived in the city proper. The delegation represented the city and the Hamilton club, whose guest the admiral will be during his stay here, which ends Tuesday morning.

The trip has been uneventful, and the "hero of Santiago." "But I have been deeply moved by the demonstrations of the people along the route. You know, it moves me so I can scarcely speak to see the little bands waving at me from the small open platforms. I love the little ones."

As the train drew into the outskirts of the city, factory whistles blew their wildest notes and squads of people rushed down every street leading to the tracks, and waved their hands. Whenever possible the admiral answered back through the windows of his car, bowing his head and uttering a handkerchief.

Mrs. Schley seemed to enjoy the demonstration even more than her distinguished husband.

"I did not sleep very well last night," said the admiral in a moment when the crowd along the way was not engaging his attention. "You know a train don't rock the way a ship does. It's too jerky and the whistles—they would wake the dead. But I feel in first-class health and I hope to survive these many years—well, at least five days, for I want to finish my itinerary."

A reporter ventured the remark, referring to the shouting crowds, that the admiral "had it all coming to him."

"It is as great a reward as can be hoped for on this earth," the admiral remarked, half to himself. "But in the streets above, boys, we shall all be judged, and will receive our proper reward—the rewards for the good we have done, I mean, and punishment for our misdeeds."

A double line of policemen stood at the depot when the admiral alighted, but they were unable to restrain the crowd which straightway went wild at the sight of the easily-recognized gontee which showed above the heads of the guards as an unmistakable mark of the wearer's identity.

A delegation of school children, waving flags, greeted the visitor at the further end of the station. He bowed to them and waved his hand. The municipal council's resolutions were presented and the admiral and Mrs. Schley were driven through demonstrative throngs to their apartments—the "presidential suite" in the Auditorium annex. Here Mr. Schley retired to don his "shore togs," as he expressed it.

At 11 a. m. he was given a breakfast by the reception committee of the Hamilton club and enjoyed himself in an informal manner. Later in the day the admiral attended a reception at the Press club, where he met many of the newspaper fraternity, including a number of war correspondents whom he had met in Cuba. This was followed by receptions at the Booster club, of which the famous sailor is a member, and at the Hamilton club.

At a reception in the Fine Arts hall Admiral Schley was met by the men who, in the evening were guests at the Hamilton club's "Schley banquet." Resolutions expressing the highest esteem and appreciation of the admiral and of his services to his country were presented by Judge Axel Chytrous in behalf of the Swedish societies of Chicago.

HAS MADE A CONFESSION.

William Strother Confesses to the Murder of A. Dean Cooper at St. Louis.

BROKE DOWN UNDER SWEATING PROCESS

Little by Little Chief of Detectives Wormed Admissions Out of the Culprit Until He Finally Confessed That He Struck the Blow That Caused Cooper's Death.

St. Louis, Jan. 25.—William Strother, the negro bathhouse attendant, has confessed that he murdered his employer, A. Dean Cooper, Wednesday night. He said he committed the deed in drunken passion.

The confession was made to Chief of Police Desmond, Saturday morning, after two hours' questioning.

It became evident shortly after eight o'clock, when the chief renewed his questioning, begun Friday morning, that Strother was upon the point of breaking down.

At ten o'clock, the hour for the coroner's inquest to open, Strother made the final admission which completes the chain and shows him to be the murderer.

He said that he took the hammer in one hand, lifted it high in the air and brought it down on the head of Mr. Cooper, who was asleep on the cot.

"I don't know why I done it," said Strother. "I guess I must have been drunk and mad."

The confession was made to Chiefs Kiehl and Desmond and a police stenographer. The stenographer was ordered to transcribe the complete cross-examination. Strother said he would sign the record.

Later Chief Desmond said he would immediately send Strother to the coroner's office. Strother had said he would repeat his confession to the coroner's jury.

Dr. Hoogher, assigned by the coroner to conduct the inquest, when informed of Strother's confession, stated that the inquest would proceed as originally planned and that Strother's confession would be heard at the end of the inquiry.

HORSE SUPPLY DEPLETED.

No Longer Any Large Bands of Horses in Montana—South African Demand the Cause.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 25.—A conservative estimate of the number of horses shipped from Montana last year places the number at 100,000. The British call for mounts for South Africa has resulted in thousands of head of stock leaving the state. The result is that there are now fewer horses in this state than ever before, indeed, there are no large bands, and unless there is a movement of horses to Montana from the south there is certain to be a horse famine in this state next year. Before the bottom fell out of the horse market a cayuse could be seen on every hill. To-day it is possible to drive for 50 miles across the country without seeing a horse.

LOST CREEK EXPLOSION.

Twenty-One Dead and Nine Injured the Results of Friday's Calamity in Iowa.

THE WORST IN THE STATE'S HISTORY.

The Effects of the Explosion Were Something Terrible, the Wholesale Destruction Retarding the Efforts at Rescue in a Measurable Degree.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 25.—Twenty-one dead bodies were, Saturday morning, taken from the improvised morgue in shaft No. 2 of the Lost Creek Coal Mining Co., of this place, as the result of the worst mining disaster in the history of Iowa. When brought to the surface they presented a horrible sight. Some of the bodies were mangled beyond recognition, and could only be identified by some trinket or something found in their pockets. The 11 injured are improving and no additional deaths are announced.

Coroner Foehlinger, of Oskaloosa, is holding an inquest to determine who is to blame for the disaster. The trouble was caused by an explosion of dust ignited by a shot too heavily charged. It proved to be what miners call a "screamer." To be more clear, the shot, when exploded, instead of knocking down the coal, fires straight out into the room. This kind of a shot causes much dust, and the flames coming into contact with the dust usually furnishes an explosion.

WAS SIMPLY TERRIFIC.

The Effects of the Explosion Retarded the Work of Rescue.

Lost Creek, Ia., Jan. 25.—In the accident of Friday the effect was simply terrible. The tracks were torn up and the guides for the cages were blown away. On this account they could not be used to ventilate the mine immediately. All the entry doors were blown completely out, and no system of ventilation could be arranged until the doors were replaced by volunteers, and it was almost certain death to go into the mine.

As soon as the cages could be operated, volunteers stepped forward. The first man to enter the mine was Jap Trimbrell, general superintendent of the mine. He was eagerly followed by many others, who took their turns in going to the relief of the victims. As soon as the mine was fully explored 20 dead bodies were found. Coroner Foehlinger of Oskaloosa was on the ground and took charge of the dead bodies. He caused them to be taken to the company's store about a mile distant. Here an improvised morgue was established and the bodies were received wrapped in blankets. The coroner did not deem it advisable to expose them to the view of the crowd.

The Lost Creek mine, where the accident occurred, is about ten miles south and one mile east of Oskaloosa, and three miles northeast of Eddyville. It is owned by the Lost Creek Coal and Mining Co., of which C. E. Laughlin, H. L. Spencer, Jeff Trimbrell, F. E. Green and O. S. Ellis are the chief stockholders. The property has been successfully operated a number of years. The shift where the accident is No. 2, and has been operated about eighteen months. It has been thought perfectly safe. The ventilation is perfect, the only possible fault ever found being that it was a little dusty at times.

The explosion occurred east and north of the shaft, in the east entries, and almost all in that part of the mine were killed or hurt. All the miners on the west side escaped injury and got out of the mine; in fact, some did not know of the accident till called on for help.

Married in a Buggy.

It was neither a quiet home marriage nor a church wedding that took place in town Sunday afternoon, but it was a real pleasant affair on wheels. A party drove to the sidewalk in front of Rev. W. R. Gibbs' residence on Main street and that popular minister was informed that his services were desired, and in his usual good style he pronounced the ceremony that made Mr. Chester Cleghorn and Miss Viola Woodall husband and wife. The bride is the daughter of Mr. C. C. Woodall, one of our well known farmers and the groom is one of our industrious young farmers.

Miss Newcomb is the daughter of Mr. Joseph Newcomb and a young lady possessed of many gifts and graces, possessing as she does a fine christian character, and of whom every one says, "She is a model christian." We feel safe in predicting for them a happy voyage o'er the sea of life.

The marriage was a quiet affair, only the family and a few of their most intimate friends being present. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, we learn, will make their future home at Mr. Stanley's farm near this place.

DR. W. S. GRAVES DEAD.

One of the County's Oldest and Most Highly Respected Citizens.

At his home at Dycusburg, surrounded by friends and loved ones, on Sunday, Jan. 26, Dr. W. S. Graves passed peacefully away.

Dr. Graves was born in Marion county, August 28, 1820. His father and mother were natives of Maryland, coming to Kentucky in 1795. Dr. Graves spent his boyhood on the farm; at the age of twenty he began the study of medicine, and after studying with Dr. Green Forrest, at Lebanon, he began the practice of medicine with his preceptor. In 1846 he moved to Dycusburg, and continued the practice of his profession until ill health and old age made serious inroads upon his physical condition, he enjoyed a large and lucrative practice. He was regarded by the people as well as his brother practitioners as a fine physician and his skill as such was attested by his success and great popularity as a physician. He was a man of sterling integrity, strong convictions and unswerving, active devotion to any cause that his keen judgment and broad intelligence led him to champion. He formed many warm friendships throughout this section and numerous are the friends who will long cherish his name and memory.

October 27, 1852, he was married to Helen A. Shelby, daughter of Isaac and Catharine (Proctor) Shelby. To them ten children were born, six of whom are now living.

ART OF CONVERSATION.

Ability to Direct Talk in the Right Direction Is More Important Than Flow of Words.

If you would win laurels as a bright conversationalist, first impress your mind with the fact that it is not flow of words that you need, but ability to direct conversation.

You must practice the part of stating a thought, keeping the talk general, or making the guest of honor the apparent leader.

You must draw out the timid, avoid dangerous channels and make every man and woman about you appear at his or her best, while your own efforts are confined to an occasional word to fill a gap.

When you are trying to make a company a conversational success, always avoid a rattling liveliness on your own part.

Don't imagine that to be a clever woman you must be a wit.

If you are naturally witty, well and good; it will crop out occasionally. But if your wit is forced, it will degenerate into mere affectation, and affectation is fatal.

Your main object is to make yourself interesting without being intrusive—to keep yourself in the background while you direct the general conversation.

It is a wonderfully interesting accomplishment.

You learn to note the slightest change in facial expression. The quiver of an eyelid or the movement of a lip tells you a story. You see pleasure, anger, interest or dislike, where another detects no thought.

Your own mind acts more quickly as you appreciate the unspoken thoughts of others. You have the pleasure of feeling that your acquirement is not wholly selfish, for it gives you the power to understand the reserved and to put the shy at their ease.

Above all, don't talk too much. No matter how interesting your stories may be, they are not as a rule so interesting to another person as the stories he wants to tell. The skillful talker, like the really skillful diplomat, uses few words and makes them count.—N. Y. World.

FIRST LADY OF IOWA.

Mrs. A. B. Cummins, Wife of the New Hawkeye Governor, Is a Popular Favorite.

Mrs. A. B. Cummins, wife of the new governor of Iowa, is a leader in social and club circles in Des Moines. She is a woman of ability and charming personality and the late Senator Gear used to characterize her as his most formidable opponent in the senatorial contest between himself and Mr. Cummins. Her maiden name was Miss L. Gallery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gallery, of Eaton Rapids, Mich. She was educated in the schools of Eaton Rapids and was married to Mr. Cummins at that place in 1874. At that time Mr. Cummins was a law student in Chicago. Shortly afterward he was admitted to the bar. Mr. and Mrs. Cummins lived in Chicago until 1875, when they moved to Des Moines, where they have since resided. Their home is on West Grand avenue, in the most fashionable quarter of the city.

Mrs. Cummins is a member of the Congregational church and one of its hardest workers. She was for many years on the board of directors of the social settlement, but has been compelled to resign owing to stress of other duties. She has been president of the Women's club, the leading organization of its kind here.

The Science of Colds.

Almost everybody one meets is afflicted with that trivial but annoying ailment, a "cold." This is one of the minor troubles of life, but it is a singularly perverse affliction all the same, and one decidedly obstinate as regards its tendencies toward cure. Doctors now agree that the cold in the head or "coryza" is an infectious trouble, and therefore to be regarded as another triumph for the ubiquitous microbe. The spread of cold through a household may thus be accounted for on the scientific principle of ordinary infection. The means of cure are many. One English specialist recommends taking an opiate to start with, in the shape of 15 or 20 drops of chlorodyne in water, repeating the dose in, say, four hours. He also prescribes a Dover's powder at bedtime (say ten grains) and a hot drink, by way of encouraging skin action, provided risk of cold and chill is avoided.

COMEDY OF ERRORS.

New Orleans Woman Who Frightened and Sought Refuge in the Castle of the Queen.

"Women are thoughtless creatures at times and they frequently get into rather embarrassing predicaments by making thoughtless remarks," said a citizen who lives in St. Charles avenue to a New Orleans Times-Democrat man. "Just now there is a good joke going the rounds on a well-known lady who lives uptown, and it is all due to the fact that she was just a little thoughtless a few days ago. She might have made a life-time enemy out of a member of her sex if it had not been for the peculiar

"She was walking out St. Charles avenue. About a block away she saw a dog rushing toward her, and a few feet behind the dog was a man. He had his right hand shoved in under his coat and seemed to be pursuing the dog for the purpose of killing it. The lady thought the dog was mad. It was a mean-looking animal, and from the way she looked at things generally, the man was not at all good looking. She did not know what to do. Finally she concluded that she would rush into one of the houses. She picked out the largest place. She rushed upon the gallery and jerked the bell sharply. A lady came to the door. 'You will excuse me,' she said; 'but here comes a mad dog.' 'Where?' asked the lady of the house. 'Why, right there,' she answered, pointing to the dog which was being pursued by the man. 'And he is such a horrible-looking creature,' she continued, 'and the man is after him with a pistol—such a horrible, desperate looking man! He has a pistol under his coat, and she was gasping for breath all the while. The lady of the house looked at her curiously after she had seen the dog and the man. 'That dog is not mad,' she said with a gasp of her head. 'That dog is simply sick. The man has no pistol. That's a bottle of milk he has under his coat, and he's my husband, and that's our dog, and he's one of the greatest and best dogs in New Orleans and—'

"But the frightened lady broke into the conversation and there were a few disdainful exchanges, and the little woman who had sought refuge in the house bowed out into the street and started toward her home."

GOOD HOUSEKEEPERS.

After All Is Said and Done, They Are the Only Girls Who Can Make a Happy Home.

To fit herself for married life, every girl should learn to fulfill the duties of a good housekeeper. No matter how old she may be, if she is not capable of managing a house in every department of it, she is not old enough to marry. When she promises to take the position of wife and home-maker, the man who holds her promise has every right to suppose that she is competent to fulfill it. If she proves to be incompetent or unwilling, he has good reason to consider that he has made an unwise contract.

No matter how plain the home may be, if it is in accordance with the husband's means, and he finds it neatly kept, and the meals (no matter how simple) served from shining dishes and clean table linen, that husband will leave his home, morning after morning, with loving words and thoughts and look ahead with eagerness to the time when he can return.

Let a young woman play the piano and acquire every accomplishment within her power—the more the better—for every one will be that much more power to be used in making a happy home. At the same time if she cannot go to the kitchen if necessary, and cheerfully prepare an appetizing meal, and serve it neatly after it is prepared she had better defer her marriage until she learns.

If girls would thoroughly fit themselves for the position of intelligent housekeepers before they marry, there would be fewer discontented, unhappy wives, and more happy homes.—N. Y. Weekly.

Neat Way to Cook Bacon.

The neatest way to cook bacon is to slice thin, remove the rind and lay the pieces close together on a fine wire broiler. Lay this over a dripping pan and bake for a few minutes in a hot oven until crisp and brown, turning it once. Drain on brown paper and serve on a hot platter. The dripping will be clear, rich fat, excellent for frying purposes, and the bacon crisp and easily digested.

Faith and Works.

One day last week a Berkeley student in one of Prof. L. Dupont Syle's classes came into the recitation-room so late that the English teacher made a mild remonstrance at the extreme tardiness of the young man.

"Professor," replied the young fellow, in excusing himself, "my watch was slow, I shall have no faith in it after this."

"My dear fellow," said Syle, "what you need is not faith, but works."—San Francisco Wave.

Over the Danger Line.

"Weary," said Shiny Patches, as the two were resting as usual, "this is my birthday, and I draw a deep breath of relief, for I am out of danger."

"What are you talking about?" asked Weary.

"I am 35 years old, and for some time I have known that between the ages of 20 and 35 men do their greatest work. It has kept me worried, but now I feel safe."—N. Y. Herald.

An Unstable Rectitude.

He—I am so glad that you are willing to begin housekeeping in a simple and economical way, but are you sure you can get along without servants?"

She—Yes, indeed; that's easily fixed. We can hire furnished apartments which have been left in charge of a housekeeper, you know; and as for the meals, we can leave our orders with a caterer.—N. Y. Weekly.

Wanted to Reform Him.

Mrs. Church—And you say your husband wrote these verses to you before you married him?

Mrs. Gotham—Yes; and there's a lot more of them.

"I am surprised that you could have married a man who wrote such sickening poetry!"

"I believed it was the only way I could stop him."—Yonkers Statesman.

Not to Be Disturbed.

"Well—er—s'pose I send 'em up to your place?" replied the country storekeeper.

"I did think to take 'em with me." "Sorry, ma'am, but Jake Bullyman's 'noodle' on top of the bar'l that they're in, an' he ain't in the best of humor to-day."—Philadelphia Press.

Repudiates It.

Tailor—See here, this bill has been standing since 1893.

Graphiter—My dear sir, don't you know that anatomists say man changes entirely every seven years?

Tailor—What has that to do with it? Graphiter—Well, don't you see I'm not the same person who contracted that bill?—Catholic Standard and Times.

A Matter of Trust.

"The great trouble," said the capitalist, "is to find a man one can trust."

"Oh, I don't know," replied the man of schemes and poverty. "It depends on the point of view. Now, in my case the great trouble is to find a man who will trust me."—Chicago Post.

Going to the Night Shop.

Tess—Della Mode wants me to try her dressmaker. I wonder if she'd suit me.

Jess—Oh, yes, indeed; she's just the one for you.

Tess—Why?

Jess—Yes, she's a wonder. Why, she can make the pluriest kind of people look nice.—Tit-Bits.

Didn't Do It That Way.

"Very few girls," said the mother, "know how to sit down gracefully. You should be deliberate about it."

"I am," returned the girl.

"Nix," said her annoying small brother.

"Yes, I am, too," said the girl.

"Not when you were learning to skate at the park this morning," insisted the small brother.

Thereupon the discussion ended.—Chicago Post.

A Ribbuns Opinion.

"It is appalling to contemplate the effects that this increase in the price of corn may lead to," said the panicky person. "It may lead to something like a famine."

"Worse than that," returned Col. Stillwell, solemnly; "worse than that. In my opinion the pangs of thirst are even more terrible than those of starvation."—Washington Star.

As Discussed at the Zoo.

"You know," said the orang-outang, "that man is descended from a monkey."

"Yes," answered the chimpanzee, "and his descent has been very great. But let us sit down to his credit that he tries to rise again. Every now and then you hear of some man who is doing his best to make a monkey of himself."—Washington Star.

Diplomacy.

She was a little Cambridge girl, and not very well acquainted with school discipline. One day she was discovered whispering, and the teacher sent her to an ante-room to meditate on the enormity of her offense. When she was again permitted to join her classmates the teacher asked: "What were you saying to the girl next to you when I caught you whispering?" The little culprit hung her head for a moment, and then replied: "I was only telling her how nice you looked in your new dress." "Well, that—yes—I know—but we must—the class in spelling will please stand up."—Boston Herald.

A Thousand Million Sons.

At the Glasgow meeting of the British Association Lord Kelvin interested a large audience with his calculations of the probable total amount of gravitational matter in the visible universe. He showed that if, 25,000,000 years ago, 1,000,000,000 masses, each equal to our sun, had been distributed through a sphere about 18,000,000,000 miles in radius, they would now have acquired velocities about equal to those known to be possessed by the stars visible to us. Therefore it is probable that the total amount of gravitational matter in the visible universe does not differ much from that of 1,000,000,000 suns.—Youth's Companion.

The Wrong Number.

The telephone girl and the bill clerk, to whom she had promised her heart and hand, were sitting in front of the fireplace talking about the happy days to come when they would be one. From one little detail to another the talk finally drifted to the subject of lighting fires in the morning. On this point the young man was decided. He stated it as his emphatic opinion that it was a wife's place to get up and start the fires and let her poor, hardworking husband rest. After this declaration there was silence for the space of about three quarters of a second. Then the telephone girl thrust out the finger encircled by her engagement ring and murmured sweetly but firmly:

"Ring off, please. You have got connected with the wrong number." W. G. Jack son in the Salt Lake Herald.

The Four Track News.

There is much of education and enlightenment in the dainty little monthly magazine, "The Four-Track News," which comes to us from the editorial workshops of the passenger department of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company. Its pages are filled with interesting matter regarding travel, our expanding commerce, and the development of our transportation facilities. The January number is devoted largely to California, the idea of the editor being to give special attention each month to that portion of the world to which people are at the time traveling. The leading article on this subject is "The Land of the Sunset Sea," written by Luther L. Hobbes and Now, by George Eade. "The Romance of Reality," by Jane W. Gortme, a sketch of Hudson, New York, by H. R. Thayer, and much that is entertaining, wise, and well-digested departments. These are also valuable contributions on the cultivation of prunes, olives, grain and sugar beets. 50 cents per year, 5 cents per copy. Business communications should be addressed to George H. Daniels, General Passenger Agent, Grand Central Station, New York city.

The Best Thing.

"All the mechanical toys you make seem to be very successful."

"Yes," said the inventor. "I've only had one failure."

"What was the matter with it?"

Beat Out of Increase of Pension.

A Mexican war veteran and prominent editor writes: "Seeing the advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy, I am reminded that as a soldier in Mexico in '47 and '48 I contracted Mexican diarrhea, and this remedy has kept me from getting an increase in my pension for on every renewal a dose of it restores me." It is unequalled as a quick cure for Diarrhea, and is pleasant and safe to take. At Haynes'.

DON'T LIVE TOGETHER.

Constipation and health never go together. DeWitt's Little Early Risers promote easy action of the bowels without distress. "I have been troubled with constiveness nine years," says J. O. Greene, Depew, Ind. "I have tried many remedies, but Little Early Risers give best results." At Haynes' store.

A WOMAN'S WEARINESS.

Woman's sensitiveness make them subject to more intense weariness than men. The melancholy, depression and exhaustion they suffer is due to sluggish action of their organs, which loads the system with impurities, poisons the blood, and shatters their nerves. Morley's Sarsaparilla and Iron will cleanse the system, vitalize the nerves and give strength and energy. At Woods & Co.

Repairing Neatly Done

Never thought of such a sign for a medicine did you? Well, it's a good sign for Scott's Emulsion. The body has to be repaired like other things and Scott's Emulsion is the medicine that does it.

These poor bodies wear out from worry, from over-work, from disease. They get thin and weak. Some of the new ones are not well made—and all of the old ones are racked from long usage.

Scott's Emulsion fixes all kinds. It does the work both inside and out. It makes soft bones hard, thin blood red, weak lungs strong, hollow places full. Only the best materials are used in the patching and the patches don't show through the new glow of health. No one has to wait his turn. You can do it yourself—you and the bottle.

This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's Emulsion and is on the wrapper of every bottle.

LIFE IN THE WEST.

What a Soldier Thinks of Army Life in Kansas.

FORT RILEY, KAN., JUL. 18—

EDITOR PRESS: Of late I have received many letters from friends in Livingston and Crittenden counties in regard to the army and also of the western country, and as my time is limited I shall endeavor to give a description through the columns of your valuable paper.

I have not been in the service long enough to become accustomed to the ways of the "regular," yet my description may interest many of your readers anyhow.

This post is in the central part of Kansas on the "Kaw," (or better known to scholars as the Kansas) river and only fifty-four miles from the home of the "Hatchet Brigade" leader, Mrs. Carrie Nation of Topeka.

This is one of the oldest posts in the United States and was the home of the famous Indian fighter Gen. Custer, from the time the Seventh cavalry was organized until the battle of the Wichita in 1868.

We have eight troops of cavalry and three batteries of field artillery; also one cavalry band and artillery music corps.

The cavalry troops are A, B, C, and D, of the Fourth, known as Col. Carr's "Rough Riders" just back from the Philippine islands. The batteries are the Sixth, Nineteenth and Seventh, the latter being the oldest field battery in the service, being organized in 1854 at Ft. Myers, Va.

It is rumored that the artillery corps are to be in Topeka on the twenty-ninth of this month to welcome the arrival of Brig. Gen. Funston, who is now on his way from the islands.

I am more than pleased with the army and can not understand why so many become discouraged with it. Any one who conducts themselves on the right principles can succeed as well in the army as they can on the "outside." The army is O. K. for a fellow that can obey the command and execute properly the instructions given by his superior officers.

In regard to the country, I noticed in your paper not many months past a letter from Gertrude McCain, of Phillipsburg, Kansas, in which she says that she lives in the far off west and is well pleased with the country. Guess she is pretty easily pleased. She speaks of the grasshopper as being very patriotic in his uniform of red, white and blue. The grasshoppers are so thick that I have never been able to see what color they are.

I think that this must be the "God forsaken" country of the world.

Mr. F. J. Clement in his letter of Aug. 6th, 1901, has well described western life, and he touched along the soldier line, too. He is correct when he says that one can write a week of the western country scenes. Yes, I could even be months in telling of the many queer things of the west, and more especially of those of Kansas.

Pardon me, Mr. Editor; I did not intend to make my letter so long.

I beg to remain, yours in the ranks,

Maurice C. Sutherland, Seventh Battery Artillery, Artillery Corps, Ft. Riley, Kan.
